Theatre B Invites You to Season Preview at the RiverHaven Events Center in Moorhead

Theatre B ushers in its 21st Season of creating theatre for the brave and curious with a Season Preview event. Continuing the tradition of season preview events prior to the pandemic, Theatre B invites the public to celebrate the work of our artists and volunteers while enjoying the magnificent views from the RiverHaven Events Center overlooking the Red River.

The unifying thread of the season is the idea of Connection. Connections made, connections missed, and the all too human need to feel a part of something greater than ourselves. “Although I am new to Theatre B, I have quickly grown to appreciate the company as an Ensemble as well as individuals,” says Colt Neidhardt, Theatre B’s new Executive Director. “In the true spirit of an ensemble, each company member supports the good of the company as a whole above all else.”

The evening will include previews of scenes from our upcoming 21st Season, recognition of our incredible volunteers, a special season ticket announcement, complimentary appetizers, and a cash bar!

The Season preview will be held at RiverHaven (700 1st Ave N, Moorhead) on Wednesday, September, 6th at 7pm. The event is free and open to the public. RSVPs through theatreb.org are appreciated but not required.

About Theatre B:

The purpose of Theatre B is to invigorate civic conversation through intimate and transformative storytelling. Since 2003, the Ensemble and guest artists of Theatre B have brought to life a wide variety of the latest award-winning plays and bold new works. Theatre B prides itself on removing barriers between actor and audience, creatively using space and intimate storytelling to intensify the audience experience. Theatre B productions are timely and relevant, inspiring a sense of community, engaging conversation, and prompting viewers to contemplate stories long after they have left the theatre.

“Rearranging the furniture of your mind.”
